Detroit is putting in a system of water works.

It looks now as if the Canadian boudle revelations would cause the fall of the government.

A few days more and Minnesota will have safely housed the finest harvest that the state has known for some years.

The treasurer of Morrison county, S. Stoll, died at noon on Monday. He was serving his third term and was a very popular official.

Two Crow Indians were run over by a Northern Pacific train at Billings, Mont., on Sunday, and the chief wants the company to pay him for the death of his braves.

The advertisements of Royal Baking Powder have accomplished their purpose. At St. Cloud the other evening a lad in his teens prayed: "O Lord, make me pure, absolutely pure, like the Royal Baking Powder."

The Atwater Press editor had a real bad attack last week judging from the way he ripped the Editorial Association up and declared emphatically that L. P. Hunt was not capable of holding down the position in the World's Fair commission. We always feel sorry for a man afflicted with as jealous a disposition as Bro. Spencer appears to have.

Nine out of every ten experienced newspaper men dread the approach of a presidential contest, truthfully remarks the Northfield News, as presidential years are always unprofitable to the party papers. It is the year that we are expected to do all the printing for the campaign for next to nothing. It is to be dreaded more than the time of year that the elm wood begins to come in.

The Man Up a Tree.
A Virginia old gentleman who is mildly insane upon the subject of advantages of out-of-door life has taken up his residence in an apple tree. Strange to say, his health has not suffered by the exposure, but has actually improved.

Not a Brainerd Alderman.
"Now gentlemen," said the chairman of the committee, "before we make any report on this ordinance let us examine it again carefully, section by section. There is much in it that we cannot afford to consider hastily."

"How much is there in it?" inquired the alderman from the sixteenth ward, absently.

Hafting Logs Across Superior.
ASHLAND, Wis., July 29.—The first raft of logs ever brought across Lake Superior arrived yesterday. There were 2,000,000 feet from Beaver Bay in the raft, to be cut here. It is thought this experiment will result in bringing a large amount of Canadian lumber here to manufacture. Six million more will follow next week.

Don't Be Lukewarm.
There does not seem to be much use for lukewarmness in this world. Nobody wants it or admires it, and colorless people who are lukewarm themselves are not attracted by others of the ilk. A lukewarm dinner is a horror; a lukewarm drink is nauseating; a lukewarm friend is far worse than a red-hot foe, and lukewarm praise can successfully damage the most virtuous character.—Harper's Bazar.

Dime Savings Bank Responsible.
The New Orleans mint began coining dimes Tuesday for the first time since 1854, and is turning them out at the rate of 100,000 a day. This is said to be due to the recently introduced dime pocket savings bank, which has retired so many of these coins from circulation as to leave the country without enough for the ordinary necessities of business. The coinage of dimes will have the effect of reducing the output of standard dollars and also require an increase in the force of men, the work being harder.

Will Show The House.
Mrs. Samuel, the mother of Jesse James, the outlaw, has received an offer from Chicago to exhibit their house, a 1½-story structure, at the World's Fair. The house was built in 1834, and came into the possession of the James family in 1841. It is situated four miles east of Kearney, Mo. The up-stairs is a low loft in which the James boys used to hide, and the north and east sides are full of loop-holes from which they from the inside could shoot their enemies. The house will be moved to Kearney, where it will be placed on a flat car and taken direct to Chicago.

The Reason Why.
In the four months since the McKinley system has been in operation the falling off in the export of bread-stuffs has been $15,000,000, proclaim Free Trade organs. Why? Because wheat has been worth 25 per cent more in our home markets this year than last. Does any sane man believe for a moment that our bread-stuffs should be pushed into foreign markets when it is demanded at such prices at home? Go to! then falsifiers. Thinness, say name is Free Trade argument. While the Free Trade papers loudly proclaim this falling off in our exports of bread-stuffs, they not only studiously refrain from giving the reason for it, but also fail to announce that our total foreign trade for the four months mentioned has been $44,000,000 greater than for the same period last year—all due to the operations of reciprocity and protection.—Implement and Grain Trade, Kansas City.

Judge Holland on the Alliance.
Sitting on the Merchants' veranda yesterday afternoon, clad in a light suit of clothes and looking refreshingly cool, was Judge Holland, of Brainerd. He opened court on the veranda early in the afternoon and heard many cases, which later on he related to the reporter. The Judge says that the crops throughout the state are fine, especially so around Brainerd, where harvesting will begin in about ten days or two weeks.

"The wheat combine is never spoken of at all by Brainerd farmers," added the Judge, "and when business men speak of the matter it is to ridicule the idea of farmers forcing up the price. Really, I don't think the farmers want to combine, but that the scheme is that of the Alliance, pure and simple. There is considerable talk about the Northern Pacific increasing the capacity of its shops at Brainerd, and if it does there will be quite a boom on it."—Pioneer Press.

Undisputed Merit.
The great success of the Royal Baking Powder is due to the extreme care exercised by its manufacturers to make it entirely pure, uniform in quality, and of the highest leavening power. All the scientific knowledge, care and skill, attained by a twenty years' practical experience are contributed toward this end, and no pharmaceutical preparation can be dispensed with a greater accuracy, precision and exactness. Every article is strictly pure. A number of chemists are employed to test the strength of each ingredient, so that its exact power and effect in combination with its co-ingredients is definitely known. Nothing is trusted to chance, and no person is employed in the preparation of the materials used or the manufacture of the powder, who is not an expert in his particular branch of the business. As a consequence, the Royal Baking Powder is of the highest grade of excellence, always pure, wholesome and uniform in quality. Each box is exactly like every other, and will retain its powers and produce the same and the highest leavening effect in any climate, at any time. The government chemists after having analyzed all the principal brands in the market, in their reports placed the Royal Baking Powder at the head of the list for strength, purity and wholesomeness, and thousands of tests all over the country have further demonstrated the fact that its qualities are, in every respect, unrivaled.

Quite a Menagerie.
Texas has a Hogg for governor, a Pig for judge, a Lamb for senator, a Durham for representative, and a Buffalo for sheriff. And in addition to this the Farmers' Alliance continues to stir up the animals.—Field and Farm.

How Small Things Magnify.
In a large Philadelphia establishment connected with the iron industry there occurred a few days ago an apparent discrepancy in the accounts involving a matter of 3,000 pounds of scrap iron. The clerks of the department were set to work to uncover the tangled skein, and after they had expended two whole days in the search they were compelled to give up the task and pronounced it beyond their comprehension. This matters stood for several days. Several days later the office boy decided to keep himself in practice in addition by footing up a column of figures on a sheet which was lying on the desk beside him in the scrap iron department. Bending his energies to the task he got along swimmingly with the units, tens and hundreds columns, but when he came to the fourth column he could not make it agree with the footings set down. Again and again he tried it with the same result—3,000 loss. Going over the figures one by one, his attention was attracted by the number one. A fly speck was beside it, so as a position as to make it appear like a figure four, and as such it had been counted by each of the clerks in the department. The boy had earned his promotion, and he got it.

Pointers on Beanie.
Deputy Marshall Gus Beanie, of St. Paul, tells a globe reporter that the reports from Mille Lacs lake that the Indians have threatened the white settlers are untrue. Mr. Beanie is known personally and by reputation through the length and breadth of Northern Minnesota, and his reputation for truth and veracity is not above par among those who know him best. If all the scattering bands of Chippewas in the state were located in the White Earth reservation, whisky-vendors excluded from their midst, and they were taught to cultivate the soil and live like their white neighbors, Beanie's occupation would be gone. Deputy marshals of the Beanie stripe are opposed to removing the Indians. Such men as Beanie will prevent a settlement of the Indian question, if they can, and the sooner Commissioner Hall and the other gentlemen interested in the removal of the Indians find this out the better. We do not believe the Mille Lacs Indians will go to the war-path, but we do know that they make life a burden to the settlers and prevent the rapid settlement of the northern portion of the state. Besides, any disinterested party know that the Indians would be far better off at White Earth than where they are. Were it not for unscrupulous traders and hangers-on around the marshal's office in St. Paul the question of removing them would be speedily settled. The government has declared that the so-called Mille Lacs reservation is open to settlement, settlers have been issued to scores of patents, and settlers have gone to work and organized three townships. The government has elected officers, have commenced to lay out roads, have erected school houses and are developing the resources of the country around Mille Lacs. These settlers have rights as well as drunken plundering Indians and United States deputy marshals. The way to remove the Indians is to remove them. There is no sense in any further parleying. The Indians or the whites must go. We are no alarmist, but we believe the present state of affairs at the lake cannot continue much longer. There is liable to be trouble, serious trouble, any day.—Pioneer Union.

Gov. Merriam's knock-out of Hall and Fitzsimmons in the first round is being complimented from all quarters.

WOULDN'T it be better for the farmers to get their grain safely harvested before they accept any advice as to holding it or disposing of it.

The Moorhead News brings out Knute Nelson for governor. An election does not occur until a year from November it looks as though the matter had been broached too soon.

An exchange records a good hit lately: "Railroads grant half-fare rates to 'sports' to a prize-fight but refuse to carry harvest hands to Minnesota and Dakota at less than full fare."

PARIS is laughing over a joke about an American inventor who is said to have patented an electric carpet that is to bring about a reign of morality at once. If one of these articles is pressed by a lover's arm it at once emits a shriek like the whistle of a railway engine; and the inventor claims he has already married three of his daughters, owing to the publicity thus thrust upon a backward lover.

The Wade-Leroy Combination.
The above named combination will give an entertainment in the Opera house in this city on Saturday night, Aug. 1, and another on Monday evening, Aug. 3. Referring to this popular company the Times-Record of Valley City, N. Dak., says: "The Wade-Leroy combination returned to the city and presented Shambles to a fair house, keeping them in a roar of laughter for two hours. As an all round entertainment it was the best that has been here for some time, and Manager Clark is covered with compliments for getting this popular combine to return. Miss Wade in her lightning changes was great, her delineation of character perfect, while Leroy was a success in the comic line. Mr. Fischer, the pianist, is a competent musician, and the company are as gentle and refined off the boards as they are before the footlights."

In looking around for articles in the hardware or crockery line, the casual observer will notice that D. M. Clark & Co. carry the most complete line in the city.

IT PAYS

To be cautious in the choice of medicines. Many are injured by trying experiments with compounds purporting to be blood-purifiers, the principal recommendation of which would seem to be their "cheapness." Being made up of worthless, though not always harmless, ingredients, they may well be "cheap," but, in the end, they are dear. The most reliable medicines are costly, and can be obtained at moderate prices when the manufacturing company handles the raw materials in large quantities. It is economy, therefore,

To Use
Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the valuable components of which are imported, wholesale, by the J. C. Ayer Co. from the regions where these articles are richest in medicinal properties. "It is a wonder to me that any other than Ayer's Sarsaparilla has a show in the market. If people consulted their own interest, they would never use any other; for it is not only the best, but, on account of its concentrated strength and purity, it is the most economical."—James F. Purdy, Druggist, Washington St., Providence, R. I.
Dr. A. I. Almond, Druggist, Liberty, Va., writes: "Leading physicians in this city prescribe

Ayer's
Sarsaparilla. I have sold it for eighteen years and have the highest regard for its healing qualities."

"Although the formula is known to the trade, and every one who manufactures Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Without having the enormous facilities of the J. C. Ayer Co., it is impossible for any other party to put together such valuable ingredients at the low cost of Ayer's.

It stands at the head of all similar preparations. Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price 61¢, six bottles, $3.00.

The profile which adorns the silver dollar is that of a Philadelphia school teacher, Miss Anna W. Williams. Her profile is considered to be the most perfect of any woman in Philadelphia.

EXPERT people who were not electrocuted testify that the deaths at Sing Sing were painless. There is no oneto dispute them. Electrocuting might become popular for committing suicide if its methods were not so expensive.

The breaking out of leprosy in New York City will emphasize the popular demand that the Chinese must go. The American people can submit to a good deal, but the importation of leprosy calls for an immediate and effective protest.

A CALIFORNIA paper declares that the Garden of Eden must have been situated in Lapland because dress patterns have not changed in 1000 years. What's the matter with Central Africa? We thought Lapland had something to do with Paradise.

LORD SALISBURY says home rule for Ireland is dead and Earl Spencer says never stronger than at present. This issue seems to be almost as freely laid about as some of our invalid statements.

AN immigrant at New York, who appeared to be very indignant, was stopped at the Barro Office last because he had become a public charge, when he produced a satchel containing $17,000. He was from Russia and bound for the West.

The fact that out of an estate of $200,000, the late Secretary Windom possessed clothes and ornaments to the extent of only about $100, would hardly indicate that a desire for worldly show was not one of his weaknesses.

It is said that a Paris landladyman has discarded all soaps, sodas and bleaching powders. He merely uses pieces of water and boiled potatoes, and can cleanse, without employing any alkali, the worst soiled of linen, cottons or woollens.

It is stated that Miss Catharine Drexel's convent at Andalusia, Pa., is to be lighted by the Edison electric system. There is nothing "dim, religious" about that. Miss Drexel will be able to "let her light so shine" that men, and women too, may "see her good works."

The recruiting officers for the Army are very sensibly turning their efforts to secure men in the rural districts and are much pleased with the result. The lonely laborer on a farm is much more likely to be attracted by a soldier's life and to be content with its routine than is the man who has tried city life for a time.

M. MAXIM, a Frenchman, who has invented a rapidly firing cannon, is now constructing a machine with which to fly. He says: "If I sail in my machine across the channel and drop a hundred weight of nitroglycerine upon any English city that will be the end of it." It is hoped this cheerful gentleman will never learn to fly. Any old saw is better than a maxim of that sort.

Nothing can be permitted to rattle the course of true love in France. The execution of M. Dore's Beland and her accomplice, Dore, was postponed at Paris the other day to permit the celebration of the nuptials of the executioner's son and the daughter of a provincial executioner. Were it not for amenities like these, executioners might become extinct.

Another scandal has appeared on the British horizon. It seems that not long ago the Governor of Madras gave a fancy dress ball, at which the gentlemen, including Lord Wellesley himself and other high government officials, appeared habited as devils, while the ladies were decked out as angels. These terrible disclosures have recently come under the notice of Mr. Samuel Smith, M. P., who intends to interpellate the Under Secretary of State for India on the subject.

LORD SALISBURY, talking for effect, says that the outlook for the Conservative is good, and that as to electoral reform any revision of the electorate ought to be associated with the redistribution of the seats of Parliament. He says that Ireland, Scotland and Wales are too largely represented, and inference being that in a redistribution the country would be gerrymandered in favor of the Conservatives.

A PLEASANT young man is about to be penned up in an asylum for the insane because he ventured to give Jay Gould a little advice on the art and science of gambling in railway stocks. That same fellow could have roamed the country over telling editors how to run their newspaper and nobody would have molested him; and yet they tell us that the press is a mighty power in the land.

A NEW YORK merchant, whose trade is mostly with Africa, says that Liberia Offers no inducements for the migration of negroes from this country. The land is not so productive as the better accounts made it to be, and the people there are doing no better than the negroes in this country. The exports from Liberia do not equal the imports, and the country cannot sustain a larger population than it now has.

COUNT LUIGI PRIMOLE, a friend of Princess Bonaparte, and a chieftain among the Italian Bonapartists, is acquiring more celebrity as a amateur photographer than as a political leader. His most famous achievement was in securing a picture of the Pope from the tribune of the Assembly in the presence of a recent ceremony in the Vatican, the Holy Father being much amused when he heard of the audacious act.

The Bottom of the Sea.

The following graphic description of the realistic conflict of a submarine diver and the giant octopus which will be seen here at the opera house on August 5th, in the production of "The Bottom of the Sea," is from the Philadelphia Item, and will doubtless be read with interest:

"The Bottom of the Sea," a French spectacle, adapted by Wm. A. Brady, was produced last night for the first time in this city. It was well received, and I think that it can safely be said that it is a success in Philadelphia. The mechanical devices shown are really excellent, and in the fight between a diver and a monstrous poulp, the audience is treated to something not only novel but intensely thrilling. Most of us have read Hugo's "Toilers of the Sea," and have experienced a creepy sensation down the small of our backs as we pored over the memorable battle between a cuttle fish and a man in a cavern of the lonely sea. Agassiz Verne very cleverly worked these terrible monsters into his wonderful story, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," and probably one of the most interesting chapters of that very interesting book is where the Nautilus rises to the surface, so that its enigmatical captain and his crew can slaughter the monsters, one of whom has got entangled in the screw. Few of us will ever see the giant poulp alive and in his native element, and few of us would want to if only a tithe of the tales that are told of him are true. A big hemlock tree, this curious animal, or fish, or whatever you may choose to call it, the next best thing is to see it well placed on the stage as a mechanical device.

When the curtain rises on the fourth act, the audience is apparently confronted by a huge wall of water. They might be in the saloon of Jules Verne's Nautilus with the sliding panels in the wall drawn aside, and at last one sees "The Bottom of the Sea." The old poem of the "Diver," forgotten years ago, comes back again, and nothing too fearful would be a surprise. Not for all the jewels the greatest of the Moguls ever possessed would we venture into those watery depths, and we watch with curious eyes the figure of a diver coming down into that gruesome place. He wears a complete rubber suit, and an electric light sends its flashes before him. He steps along carefully, feeling his way as he goes. There is a high rock before him, on top of which is apparently a big submarine plant, set in motion by the almost imperceptible undulation of the water. The diver steps toward it when suddenly springs the horrible life, and the terrible tentacles weave themselves about him. The spectacle is very real. There is a very clever representation of the giant cuttle fish; the huge poulp of the tropic seas, and fighting it is a man clothed in a diver's dress. The tentacles wave through the water and fasten themselves on the rubber suit, only to be beaten and cut off by the man, until at last the horror sinks into death, behind the big bulldozer. It is a realistic representation of what would be the most terrible of submarine adventures.

The matter is the outgrowth of the trial last week, in which Mullany's wife was fined $50 for abusing a child.

The new game law seems to have headed off the wholesale destruction of fish and birds in this section. Very few fish are being shipped from this point compared with other years, and the violators of the law work under great disadvantage. No chickens have yet been killed in this neighborhood and it is quite certain that the law will be strictly lived up to in regard to shooting them before Sept. 1st. If there is as much benefit derived in the next year as has been in the past six months, the commission will not have been created in vain.

The Bottom of the Sea.
The following graphic description of the realistic conflict of a submarine diver and the giant octopus which will be seen here at the opera house on August 5th, in the production of "The Bottom of the Sea," is from the Philadelphia Item, and will doubtless be read with interest:

"The Bottom of the Sea," a French spectacle, adapted by Wm. A. Brady, was produced last night for the first time in this city. It was well received, and I think that it can safely be said that it is a success. In Philadelphia, most of us have read Hugo's "Toilers of the Sea," and have experienced a creepy sensation down the small of our backs as we pored over the memorable battle between a cutter and a man in a cavern of the lonely sea. Again Jules Verne very cleverly worked these terrible monsters into his wonderful story, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," and probably one of the most interesting chapters of that very interesting book is where the Nautilus rises to the surface, so that its enigmatical captain and his crew can slaughter the monsters, one of whom has got entangled in the screw. Few of us will ever see the giant poulp alive and in his native element, and few of us would want to find only a tube of the tales that are told of him are true. If we cannot see this curious animal, or fish, or whatever you may choose to call it, the next best thing is to see it well placed on the stage as a mechanical device.

When the curtain rises on the fourth act, the audience is apparently confronted by a huge wall of water. They might be in the salmon, too, feeling his way as he goes. There is a high rock before him, on top of which is apparently a big submarine plant, set in motion by the almost imperceptible movement of the diver. The diver steps toward it when it suddenly springs into horrible life, and its terrible tentacles weave themselves about him. The spectacle is very real. There is a very clever representation of the giant cuttle fish; the huge poulp of the tropic seas, and fighting it is a man clothed in the waters of the sea, and fasten themselves through the water, and fasten them down into that gruesome place. He wears a complete rubber suit. There is a big helmet on his head, and an electric light sends its flashes before him. He steps along carefully, feeling his way as he goes. The profile which adorns the silver dollar is that of a Philadelphia school teacher, Miss Anna W. Williams. Her profile is considered to be the most perfect of any woman in Philadelphia.

Expert people who were not electrocuted testify that the deaths at Sing Sing were painless. There is no one to dispute them. Electrocuting might become popular for committing suicide if its methods were not so expensive.

The breaking out of leprosy in New York City will emphasize the popular demand that the Chinese must go. The American people can submit to a good deal, but the importation of leprosy is one in which it is not prepared to protest.

A California paper declares that the Garden of Eden must have been situated in Lapland because dress patterns have not changed in 1000 years. What's the matter with Central Africa? We thought Lapland had something to do with Paradise.

LORD SALISBURY says home rule for Ireland is dead and Earl Spencer says never stronger than at present. This issue seems to be almost as freely lied about as some of our invalid statements.

An immigrant at New York, who appeared to be very indignant, was stopped at the Barge Office lest he should become a public charge, when he produced a satchel containing $17,000. He was from Russia and bound for the West.

The fact that out of an estate of $200,000, the late Secretary Windom possessed clothes and ornaments to the extent of only about $100, would hardly indicate that a desire for worldly show was not one of his weaknesses.

It is said that a Paris laundress has discarded all soaps, sodas and bleaching powders. He merely uses plenty of water and boiled potatoes, and can cleanse, without employing any alkali, the worst soiled of linens, cottons or woollens.

It is stated that Miss Catharine Drexel's convent at Andalusia, Pa., is to be lighted by the Edison electric system. There is nothing "dim, religious" about that, Miss Drexel will be able to "let her light so shine" that men, and women too, may "see her good works."

The recruiting officers for the Army are very sensibly turning their efforts to secure men in the rural districts and are much pleased with the result. The lonely laborer on a farm is much more likely to be attracted by a soldier's life and to be contented with its routine than the man who has tried city life for a time.

M. MAXIM, a Frenchman, who has invented a rapidly firing cannon, is now constructing a machine with which to fly. He says: "I'll sail in my machine across the channel and drop a hundredweight of nitroglycerine upon any English city that will be the end of it." It is hoped this cheerful gentleman will never learn to fly. Any old saw is better than a maxim of that sort.

Nothing can be permitted to nullify the course of true love in France. The execution of Murders Berland and her accomplice, Dore, was postponed at Paris the other day to permit the celebration of the nuptials of the executioner's son and the daughter of a provincial executioner. Were it not for amenities like these, executioners might become extinct.

Another scandal has appeared on the British horizon. It seems that not long ago the Governor of Madras gave a fancy dress ball, at which the gentlemen, including Lord Venkoc himself and other high government officials, appeared habited as devils, while the ladies were decked out in gowns. These terrible disclosures have recently come under the notice of Mr. Stansfield Smith, M. P., who intends to introduce the Under Secretary of State for India on the subject.

LORD SALISBURY, talking for effect, says that the outlook for the Conservatives is good, and that as to electoral reform any revision of the electoral ought to be associated with a redistribution of the seats of Parliament. He says that Ireland, Scotland and Wales are too largely represented, the inference being that in a redistribution the country would be gerrymandered in favor of the Conservatives.

A PLEASANT young man is about to be penned up in an asylum for the insane because he ventured to give Guy de Maupassant a little advice on the art and science of gambling in railway stocks. That same fellow could have roamed the country over telling editors how to run their newspaper and nobody would have molested him; and yet they tell us that the press is a mighty power in the land.

A NEW YORK merchant, whose trade is mostly with Africa, says that Liberia offers no inducements for the migration of negroes from this country. The reason is, no negroes as the first accounts made it out to be, and the people there are doing no better than the negroes in this country. The exports from Liberia do not equal the imports, and the country cannot sustain a larger population than it now has.

COUNT LEON PRIMO, the son of Princess Bonaparte, and a chauffeur among the Italian Bonapartists, is acquiring more celebrity as an amateur photographer than as a political leader. His most famous achievement was in securing a picture of the Pope from the tribune of the Roman noblesse during a recent ceremony in the Vatican, the Holy Father being much amused when he heard of the audacious act.
